

Arizona Aims to Become a Semiconductor Powerhouse

November 30, 2022 8:49 PM

Michelle Quinn

</> EMBED

▶ 0:00 ○

3:22

🔊 ⚙️ 🗉

The United States is pushing to regain its position as a center for semiconductor manufacturing and research as part of a Biden administration plan to make the nation less reliant on supply chains in Asia. VOA's Michelle Quinn reports from the Southwest state of Arizona on competition for billions of dollars in federal funding to bolster domestic chip manufacturing. Additional videographer: Levi Stallings Direct link ▾
